Logistics Technology Report 2009-2010

Summarized by the report are the opinions and industry insights of over 300 executives from the supply chain and logistics industry.

Their responses help to provide an in depth perspective on the use of IT and Technology for supply chains, and given the current climate, it provides a particularly valuable insight into future trends.

The aim of the survey was to compare the views of shippers and transport logistics providers about the use of IT and technology in supply chains.

Full report is attached or available here.
